
Editor's Notice

The July 2004 issue of the International Endodontic Journal contained an article entitled 'Investigation of the root canal configurations of mandibular permanent teeth in the Turkish population' (International Endodontic Journal, 37, 494–499, 2004) which is substantially similar to an article that was published in the June 2004 issue of the Journal of Endodontics entitled 'Evaluation of the root canal configurations of the mandibular and maxillary permanent teeth by gender in the Turkish population' (Journal of Endodontics, 30, 391–398, 2004).

The data presented in the IEJ and JOE articles contain a large number of instances in which figures are identical.

This notice is intended to alert authors that final versions of manuscripts submitted to the IEJ must be accompanied by a Copyright Assignment Form which includes the clear statement that an article is an original work and is not being considered for publication elsewhere. Our editorial policy is that authors must obtain permission to reuse material from other articles and acknowledge the source of this material. We take most seriously any departure from these standards and reserve the right to ban offending authors from the IEJ.
