

Dental Public Health Workshop: Network with the Educators Third Conference for Dental Public Health Educators

This course is geared towards the dental hygiene faculty member responsible for teaching dental public health/community dental health within the dental hygiene curriculum. This is the third year for the workshop and it has become an annual event. This workshop emphasizes networking groups to help educators enhance their course, share ideas and brainstorm solutions to teaching dilemmas. These networking groups further strengthen teaching concepts for dental public health educators. The course will provide teaching strategies and techniques unique to teaching dental public health. Strategies will be provided to ease the transition of applying dental public health theories taught in class.
