

In Appreciation of Our Reviewers

IN THE December 2005 issue of the Journal, I wrote about a record-breaking year. I have the pleasure of writing those same words this year: 2006 was a record-breaking year for the Journal of Prosthodontics! I am writing this editorial in mid-October, and we have already received 155 manuscripts, which is as many manuscripts as we received in all of our record-breaking 2005. Because of so many fine submissions, the Journal was able to begin bi-monthly publication in 2006. For 2007 you will notice thicker Journals—we are adding 20 pages to each issue.

Equally important to the Journal's continued success is our reviewers. Despite the record-breaking number of manuscripts, our review time has dropped slightly. Their dedicated time and effort help the Journal of Prosthodontics maintain the highest standards of scholarship; without them, the Journal's growth would be impossible. In addition to those members listed on the masthead, the reviewers listed below have been essential to the Journal's continued success.
