

Editor's Recognition Of Journal of Public Health Dentistry Reviewers

Peer review is the lifeblood of a professional journal. We are dependent on the hours of devoted expertise and thoughtfulness that each and every reviewer provides for one or many more manuscripts every year. The following colleagues gave their time and energies during the time period June 1, 2007–March 31, 2008—the last ‘class’ of review in the cottage industry. This participation made my time as Interim Editor possible.
